Re: Esporta Wash Systems Inc.

Analysis results for Staphylococcus aureus testing:

Hockey Gloves
The result of our analysis show hockey gloves spiked with Staphylococcus aureus bacteria when washed in water alone show 4000 colony forming units (CFU) per mL of rinse, compared to when washed with disinfectant results of <20 CFU/mL were recovered. This is a percent reduction of 99.5% comparing the water control to Esporta disinfectant.

Shin Pads
The result of our analysis show shin pads spiked with Staphylococcus aureus bacteria when washed in water alone show 8000 colony forming units (CFU) per mL of rinse, compared to when washed with disinfectant results of 40 CFU/mL were recovered. This is a percent reduction of 99.5% comparing the water control to Esporta disinfectant.

Helmet
The result of our analysis show hockey helmets spiked with Staphylococcus aureus bacteria when washed in water alone show 6200 colony forming units (CFU) per mL of rinse, compared to when washed with disinfectant results of 40 CFU/mL were recovered. This is a percent reduction of 99.3% comparing the water control to Esporta disinfectant.

Pants
The result of our analysis show hockey pants spiked with Staphylococcus aureus bacteria when washed in water alone show 8600 colony forming units (CFU) per mL of rinse, compared to when washed with disinfectant results of 20 CFU/mL were recovered. This is a percent reduction of 99.7% comparing the water control to Esporta disinfectant.
